

Round table Report
November/2023 SEHAB meeting
SEHAB Rep Don Hicks, NCVI
CA: Jacob Melville

Comox:

In the North Central Vancouver Island zone we have Brooklyn Creek Watershed Society where the volunteers have worked hard at stream restoration and from that effort they are seeing greater coho numbers, and pinks now establishing a presence in Brooklyn Creek. <https://brooklyncreek.ca/message-from-bcws-president/>

Courtenay:

Another group, Project Watershed of Courtenay, is working on a major estuary restoration, named Kus-Kus Sum. This restoration project will help not only the Tsolum River Restoration Society in their efforts of restoration in the Tsolum River but also the DFO Puntledge Hatchery on the Puntledge River. The Tsolum and Puntledge rivers join just above the Project Watershed Kus-Kus Sum site. <https://projectwatershed.ca/>
